

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A rectifying charge storage device, consisting of a rectifier and capacitor which share common elements, includes a sensor responsive to a monitored parameter such as pressure or the presence of a target chemical agent, to produce a variable and detectable electronic signal representative of the monitored parameter.

10